

LEAD A PROJECT FOR UN WOMEN UK. HELP MAKE THE UK'S PUBLIC SPACES SAFER FOR WOMEN.

United Nations Women is the only global organisation for gender equality working at every level from grassroots programmes to influencing government. Our mission is for every woman and girl to have the right to safety, choice and a voice.

We are looking for a talented part-time Project Manager for the Safe Spaces Now programme. More information about the project: unwomenuk.org/safe-spaces-now

PROJECT MANAGER - SAFE SPACES NOW

- Work closely with the Executive Director, leading the Safe Spaces Now project.
- Work with NGO partners, agencies, artists and grassroots activists to bring the project to life.
- This is a part-time role to be carried out remotely,
- 3 days / week on a rolling contract basis, up to 6 months total. We pay the real Living Wage.

WE'RE LOOKING FOR

- An excellent communicator, able to build bridges with all sorts of different people and organisations.
- A self-starter, able to create their own structure and targets, and use basic digital technology tools to carry out their work.
- An highly organised person able to set clear targets and monitor and report back on progress towards goals.
- Someone with a passion for ending gender-based violence and sexual harassment, able to act with sensitivity and always with inclusion in mind.
- Good existing networks within the activism, community organising or women's rights space are a bonus.
- Women who have lived experience of this issue, are Black, LGBTQI+ or otherwise identifying as part of a marginalised group are particularly encouraged to apply.

To apply, submit your CV and your answers to a few brief questions at unwomenuk.org/work-with-us